GROUP HR MANAGER

Enviably growth for this ASX Top 50 is driving a new phase requiring a Group HR Manager to lead business-focused HR consultancy in a high growth context with complexity and scale.

Reporting to the Exec GM HR, HS&E, you will champion the transformation of HR operations and services, driving change in the delivery of strongly commercial and pragmatic HR solutions. Leading an HR team and consulting to the business, you will develop a client-centric culture with high service levels.

A key senior HR role, its visibility and operating scale require strong conceptual capacity coupled with commercial, practical thinking to develop HR outcomes relevant to the business. Excellent interpersonal skills are prerequisite to build the positive relationships that get things done and to lead the HR team.

As an experienced generalist with a contemporary style and highly developed consulting ability, you will have designed & driven significant, improved HR capability and processes. This will likely have been in an industry with a technical bias and well developed systems.
